Gold and Greenbacks

A good enough old lady had sent money home to his wife by one a double eagle of gold and twenty dollars in greenback. While I was writing, she let to send with them, by express to the poor woman, the gold by on the greenback. An' I hung on to it, look down and muttered something which I did not plainly hear. Greenback that red and answered

"Yes you remember of me. You are heavy, you keep me down. They say you are worth eight dollars more than I am. But sister dollar more worth than you do and make no people happy! I don't care if you are gold. Let other be busy then precious, they."

Sent gold contemptuously. "You are strong, you will not at all. You are only paper, you will make written on you. But I am more than that gets me gets money. But you what are you worth?" "You didn't cost two cents. It is true, to tell you twenty dollars."

I stopped writing the letter and began to think. Which is worth the more, gold or greenback money, or a good, true promise? and I

"What is your promise, Greenback?"

"I do not promise anything. I just run around and tell people that the United States will pay the bearer twenty dollars in the Treasury in New York." And people believe the promise. And so are willing to work hard and take me for pay.

"But how happened the United States to make such a promise? Look!"

Greenback cleared. "I remember well what the promise on me was given for. In 1864 I was young and new and not only I never owed I. One day I was taken out of a little red box by a man they called Spinner. Soon times they called him major. He took the bundle I was in and came to a table in a large room and put me and four like me in a sack mail-bag, saying, 'There, Corporal, there's your pay in full!' The sick man to kiss, but he did not look at us, not read the promise. He held me in his hand till the major went away. Then he went for the hospital chaplain. He came and asked what was wanting. 'I want you to write a letter for me,' said the corporal. 'I can't see. I reckon I never shall see any more.' So I, the white lie in these new bills that the paymaster gave me. Read them to me.' So the chaplain read, 'The United States will pay the bearer twenty dollars at the treasury in New York.' 'Well,' said the corporal, 'you put all two of them into a letter and send them to my wife. She's a poor sick woman as ever you saw in all your life. Get back to her. Tell her to put them into our house and good people will be good friends to her, and help her to find work to keep the children together.' 'Oh, corporal,' said the chaplain, 'you'll go home yourself and see her by and by.' 'I'll write your letter though, just as you say.' 'I hardly want to go home,' answered the corporal, 'a blind man can do much you know. I'd rather lie in hospital at City Point and let Uncle Sam pay me with the boys. They'll pay my little wife a pension, will they?'

"Certainly," certainly the chaplain. "They promised to, and the United States never break their promise."

So the chaplain took us, we new and clean promises, and put us in a letter, and wrote to the corporal's wife and read it to him what he had written, and then asked if he wanted anything more?

"No—no," said the corporal, slowly. "I may think of something, but you keep the letter till to-morrow."

So he put it under his pillow and fell asleep. By and by he woke, and took all five of us out of the envelope and counted us over—one, two, three, four, five twenties. "That's a hundred. The United States will pay my wife a hundred dollars, and she will give the United States her husband. I wish I was worth more." And he put us all back into the envelope, and sealed it with a kiss, and we could see no more.

In the morning we heard the Chaplain come again. He took the sealed letter, but did not open it. He wrote a postscript on a new half sheet, and we heard the corporal's wife read it to her children a week afterward.

"P. S.—My Dear Mrs. G.—I send you the sealed letter which I took from the hand of your dear husband, Corporal G., who died unexpectedly last night. He was a brave man. He did his duty. He loved you and the children. God will comfort you, good people will love you, and the United States will care for you."

"And that's the way," continued Greenback, after a pause, "that's how the United States came to make the promise written on me, and I say it is as good as gold any day. I don't know where Gold was all those days we were so busy. I don't know what he was doing. Perhaps he does."

Gold a little red in the face, replied, "I was reserved."

"Reserved!" said Greenback, "what means had, don't it?"

"Well, yes," usefully bid. The currency was disturbed, and coin retired. Specie payments were suspended. "As I Gold with dignity.

"That means," said Greenback, "that you were so precious that when our country was in danger, and good men were dying to save her, you had away and left us greenbacks to do the work. And now you sneer at us and call us nothing but paper promises! I tell you, a promise well kept is better than gold."

O'FLAHERTY.

General Blair's Views on Negroes and White Women—The Question Discussed in the O'Flaherty Mansion—An Unbroked for Beauty—Judy Demonstrates for Women's Rights—Lovely Women in Arms—The Question and Judy Both Settled

LITTLE IRELAND,
UNDER THE HILL, Oct. 7, 1868.

MISTHER EDDITHER: Hav' ye rade the grand spiyche the Gineral Blare maydе at Injunapolis a wiko or two siner? Faix, if ye gov' it to the Ridicals an' towld thim what m'rable haythins the naygurs wuz, an' what bhasid craythurs wuz the white wimmen ov the country, espeshully the Dimmykrat white wimmen.

Wan nite Tim O'Rooney got a Sunsunaty Enquirer, wid the spiyche in it, an' brought it down to rade to me an' Mike Donnelly. It's O'Rooney is the bye kin rade, for he's bin to skool, and the praste av brot him him up larned him a mitty dale ov things. So Tim he rade an' we sot and listened, an' Judy she kapte in the cattner wid Jimmy an' a comb an' a bit ov nuzepaypur. "Listhin to this!" sez O'Rooney. "Hark to what Gineral Blare sez. 'Hav the wimmin, the purest porshun ov creyshun, sayed to hav' sowls to be saved? Hav' they no rites to sochiety, no konjoogal rites, no matherral instinks or dhirit a to protect, or hav' they no int de girlhid wid intelekthool power?'"

"Hav' they?" sez I, for he me sowl I wuz on av the Dimmykratic doctrine on that insitur.

"Av coorse they hav'," sez O'Rooney.

"Av coorse they hav'," sez I to Mike, for I knew now what the doctrine wuz, and Mike tuk'd it in.

"Bedad, then I'd like to say me rites," sez Judy out ov the cattner.

"Owld yer tung, owld wummun," sez I, "sit ye, don't Gineral Blare know better thin to say sich like av what ye've got?"

"Hark to this," sez O'Rooney. "Gineral Blare sez, 'Out from the first the wimmin ov Amerikay has bin proud to wind their husbands, and lithers and brothers, to die in the cannyles an' at the pirsin bar thim.'"

"Wish in to that owld wummun," sez I.

"Gineral Blare knoz how I fit for yes, all day at the polis," sez I.

"Yer tad tuk to yer," sez she, "an' kum home av wid me in rites."

"Just listh to what Gineral Blare sez about the naygur," sez O'Rooney.

"Yes, let have the naygur," sez I, for whin the naygur is downed upon I know it's safe Dimmykrat doctrine. There's no mistake about the naygur, an' I'm axin the wummin' quistshun to the one I'm hit down wid av Judy in the.

"Gineral Blare sez the naygur is a dirtly skowndrel," sez O'Rooney. "He's divil con I'm wid wan wife, but wants a hape av thim, kin look ov a Mormon."

"That's a point," sez I, "that the naygur is an inferior race, av a low ordinar av intelligence, I'm loyal av sinse wan more than wan wife av him. Only an inferior brute wants more."

"Owld yer tung, Judy," sez I. "Why I'm loyal for a husbind, bed want a shkore av wives."

"Is mesery in me?" sez she. "Shure an I'd see ye hung av that wan," sez she.

"Hi, in the vereck I'd live wud," sez I to me. "Fur av wan, ye black harried thief of the wurld. Its dhredful fur a naygur wunch to shlayve fur her husband is it? Well thin, its dhredful for a dayent white wummun, and sh can do yer own shloyin' here fill 'em," sez she. "Its mesiff is goin' to shtand up fur me rites."

I seen the crysis had kum an me douty wuz to be done. So I shpit in me fisht an' tuk up me shtick and sez I, "Owld wummun," sez I, "its quare noshuns is in yur head, an' its me painful douty to thrash them out av yez." An' wid that I opened a little discussion wid her that indid in her lyin' upon her back in the cattner, wi' two illigent black eyes an' a nose that wuz much to shpake ov for beauty. There wuz peyce in the shanty, as there wuz down in Georgy whin the naygurs wuz moshtly dead in the dirt.

But what did General Blare mane by wandherin' from the rite thruck ov Dimmocracy an' bringin' throuble in a dayent byes shanty by talkin' av wummun's rites? Why didn't he shtick to the naygur, which is always safe? Ye can cuss the naygur, an' bate the naygur, an' kill the naygur, an' its shure to be shtcate Dimmokrasy. But whin ye talkin about wimmin's rites bedad, our own wimmin may be wantin' their own rites, an' wat divil's aurt av Dimmokrasy wud that be? DENNIS O'FLAHERTY.

VERY LATEST NEWS.

Death of Howell Cobb.

NEW YORK, Oct 9

Howell Cobb, of Georgia, formerly Secretary of the Treasury under Buchanan, fell dead this forenoon, in the corridor of the Fifth Avenue Hotel

Brutal Prize Fight

A prize fight took place in Williamsburg this forenoon between a brute named Dolan and another named Wagner. Thirty two rounds were fought when Dolan nearly bit Wagner's thumb off. The fight was then declared in favor of Wagner. He is now shockingly mutilated and had to be carried away in the arms of brother brutes.

Earthquake Shock in India

Mail reports from India state that a shock of an earthquake was felt pretty generally in the Bombay on the morning of the 20th of August at twenty eight minutes past six o'clock. At Lapore, Amritsar, Jalandar, Amballa and Simla the shock was experienced, but no where severely.

National Unitarian Conference.

At a session of the National Unitarian Conference last evening Bishop Payne, a colored man, belonging to the African Methodist Church, made a short speech and on the appeal of Mrs Annie Bradley for money to educate the negroes South, several hundred dollars were collected. Several other colored bishops then addressed the conference, and an adjournment took place till this morning.

Alleged Perjurer Released on Bail.

John D McKinney the alleged perjured witness in the Rhodes revenue case, was released yesterday on $4,000 bail, to appear next Monday.

The Late Wife Poisoning Case

Some testimony was taken yesterday by Coroner Flynn in the alleged wife poisoning case in Fifth Houston street. George Hubachman the brother of the deceased woman testified to suspicious actions on the part of the prisoner. Henry Oxenforth and examination was postponed further.

Boy Whipped To Death

In the case of Edward Wilson, a boy of fourteen, who died from the effects of a horse whipping at the hands of one Francis McDonough, the Coroner's jury yesterday found McDonough guilty. The whipping was done with the butt of a whip while the lad was assisting McDonough at his water stand. The little fellow was seriously injured but died being hurt for two or three days because he was afraid his father would give him another whipping. Coroner Collins admitted McDonough to bail in $2,000 to answer.

The Prize Fight between Kelley and Siddons

A special dispatch from the Isle of Shoals at 4 this afternoon says the prize fight there yesterday between the friends of the victor exhibited great enthusiasm while those who backed Kelly were correspondingly despondent. Kelly himself was very loud and gave vent to his grief in tears, while congratulations start a collection for him which was generously responded to by the spectators. A hard fought battle. Of the two Kelly was the worst punished, his face more resembling a piece of raw meat than the countenance of a human being. Siddons was also badly punished but his injuries were more about the body than the face, and were of course not so plainly visible. The spectators, with the principals, left on board boats immediately after the fight, which occupied exactly one hour and thirty five minutes.

Indecent Assault

Yesterday in the Court of Quarter Sessions John Kinney and James Thompson pleaded guilty of committing an indecent assault upon an aged woman and were sentenced to the penitentiary for six months each.

Protestant Episcopal Convention

The Episcopal General Convention met at ten o'clock this morning in Trinity Chapel and held a short service, the usual devotions were said. Convention was called to order at 11½ by the President, nearly all the delegates being present.

The President submitted the Treasurer's report, from the following statement of the finances: Balance in Treasury, $[illegible]; receipts, $8,[illegible]; total, $[illegible]; disbursements, $8,[illegible]; leaving a balance in Treasury, $[illegible]. [illegible]

Fire—Five Lives Lost

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct 9

A fire on the south west corner of Sansom and Broadway last night destroyed the Franklin House and three adjoining buildings. A number of lives were lost—five bodies were recovered from the ruins of the Franklin House.

Outrage on Indians.

Arizona advices of October 3d, say a party of teamsters attacked a party of friendly Apache Mayave Indians near Lapas and killed fifteen, including Cochlochanna, head chief of the tribe. The outrage will undoubtedly inaugurate another war with the Mayave Indians and it is expected they will retaliate by a general onslaught upon isolated settlers along the river.

PETROLEUM MARKETS.

OFFICE OF THE MORNING HERALD, TITUSVILLE, October 9 1868—P M

There was scarcely so firm a feeling in the Petroleum market to day, on account of the outside market reports representing them dull. The general offering prices at points below Oil City range from [illegible] to $4 25 and at points north of the former place they were $3 90 to $4 00. The following were the sales: 5 barrels Shamburgh, at $3 75, at the wells; 400 barrels at Gregg's switch at $4 [illegible]; 1,000 barrels at Miller, buyers opt on all year at $4 25; 1,000 barrels at Miller from Upper Cherry Run at $3 90; 500 barrels at Gregg's switch on private terms. At points between Boyland Oil City the production has been slightly short for about a week to come and consequently there is a pretty firm feeling among oil men. Parts of the production were sold short on Upper Cherry Run and the stock on hand left there in the aggregate is light.

DR. BLAY'S PATENT SUCKER ROD ADJUSTER.

This is one of the most important improvements ever made in the oil status for pumping Oil Wells. By the use of the Sucker Rod Adjuster a man can do a day's work in one day, instead of two or three days. Ordinarily one or two hours and sometimes several hours, are lost in unhitching rods, getting out the tools and feeling the way to obtain the proper length. During that time the well is shut down, and may be more or less damaged by the stoppage. And the loss of oil from such stoppage often amounts to twenty five or fifty dollars in a single week.

All this loss is saved by using the Sucker Rod Adjuster.

The Adjuster forms its own connections with the Walking Beam, and requires stirrups and other gear no longer necessary. It rests on the Walking Beam, with a groove for bearing and upon which is placed a piece of hard wood about three inches thick and two feet long, one end of which is slotted and rests on the bearings of the Adjuster and the other end back, between the vertical reading on the Walking Beam. A long T bolt will pass through and the Walking Beam just back of the Adjuster, with nut underneath. By loosening this nut the block may be raised up or slipped back, and the Adjuster and polished rod removed together from the end of the Walking Beam. Telegraphic for that purpose.

A long polished rod, in connection with the Adjuster, is preferable, because it gives more room for chopping in a hole twelve feet long, is the most useful. A screw should be cut on the upper end of the rod to fit the sucker rod swivel, for convenience in drawing to repair. Dr DOUGLAS BLY is the patentee. They are manufactured for sale at

CURE EXHIBITED

HOOFLAND'S GERMAN BITTERS

AND

Hoofland's German Tonic.

The Great Remedies for all Diseases

OF THE

LIVER, STOMACH OR DIGESTIVE ORGANS.

HOOFLAND'S GERMAN BITTERS

Is composed of the pure juices (or as chemists term them) Extractives of Roots, Herbs, Barks, Berries, and entirely free from alcohol and any kind of intoxication.

Hoofland's German Tonic

Is a combination of all the ingredients in the bitters with the purest quality of Santa Cruz Rum, Orange &c., making one of the most pleasant and agreeable remedies ever offered to the public.

Those preferring a Medicine free from Alcoholic admixture, will use

Hoofland's German Bitters.

This will be found no objection to the combination of the bitters associated will use

Hoofland's German Tonic

They are both equally good and contain the same medicinal virtues, the difference between them being that the bitters are put up in a form for those who object to the use of spirituous liquors, and the Tonic is preferred by those who do not object to the use of spirituous liquors.

The Bitters are a positive cure for Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Liver Complaint, Dysentery, Diarrhoea, Jaundice, Nervous Debility, Chronic Diarrhoea, Fever and Ague, and all diseases arising from a disordered Stomach or sluggish Liver.

CONSTIPATION, FLATULENCY, INWARD PILES, DIZZINESS OF BLOOD TO THE HEAD, DISEASES OF THE STOMACH, NAUSEA, HEARTBURN, DISGUST OF FOOD, FULNESS OF WEIGHT IN THE STOMACH, SOUR ERUCTATIONS, SINKING IN THE PIT OF THE STOMACH, SWIMMING OF THE HEAD, HURRIED AND DIFFICULT BREATHING, FLUTTERING AT THE HEART, CHOKING AND SUFFOCATING SENSATIONS WHEN LYING, DOTS OR WEBS BEFORE THE SIGHT, FEVER AND DULL PAIN IN THE HEAD, DEFICIENCY OF PERSPIRATION, YELLOWNESS OF THE SKIN AND EYES, PAIN IN THE SIDE, BACK, CHEST, LIMBS, &c., SUDDEN FLUSHES OF HEAT, BURNING IN THE FLESH, CONSTANT IMAGINGS OF EVIL, AND GREAT DEPRESSION OF SPIRITS.

The Bitters are a mild yet active stimulant, and are the greatest curative ever offered to the sick and suffering. Their effect is wonderful, and they do not intoxicate. Their action is gentle, but sure. They are free from all mineral poisons, and are composed of the purest and most valuable vegetable medicines in the world. Their action upon the system is marked with such decided benefit that the invalid feels that he is on the road to health from the first dose taken. They are not a hastily made up mixture, but have been established for more than a quarter of a century, during which time they have gained a reputation for the cure of the diseases they are intended to remove, which is unparalleled by any other medicine. In this time thousands have testified to their efficacy, and many of those who were known to be in the last stage of consumption, and whose friends and physicians had given them up as beyond the reach of medicine, have recovered health and strength by the use of these Bitters. Many who have been bedridden for years with Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, or Nervous Debility, have risen from their beds of sickness at the first use of these Bitters, and have been induced to continue their use until they were restored to perfect health. Many who have been for years so nervous that they could not walk across the room without assistance, have been induced to try these Bitters, and have now the satisfaction of being able to walk a mile or more without fatigue or inconvenience. Many who have been for years so deaf that they could not hear the voice of a friend except when he spoke in the loudest tone, have had their hearing so far restored that they can now hear ordinary conversation easily. Many who have been for years so blind that they could not see to read the coarsest print, have had their sight restored so that they can now read the fine print of this paper by the light of a tallow candle. These are facts which we state without fear of contradiction, and which we can prove by the testimony of our neighbors and friends.

Hoofland's German Bitters,

AND

Hoofland's German Tonic

PREPARED BY Dr. C. M. JACKSON,

PHILADELPHIA PA

Twenty two years since they were first introduced into this country from Germany, during which time they have gained the most unbounded reputation they have received, wherever they have been introduced, the most decided evidence of their superiority over all other bitters or tonics offered to the public. They have cured thousands who have been given up by their friends and family physicians as hopeless victims of Consumption, and many who have been bedridden for years with Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, or Nervous Debility, have risen from their beds of sickness at the first use of these Bitters, and have been induced to continue their use until they were restored to perfect health. Many who have been for years so nervous that they could not walk across the room without assistance, have been induced to try these Bitters, and have now the satisfaction of being able to walk a mile or more without fatigue or inconvenience. Many who have been for years so deaf that they could not hear the voice of a friend except when he spoke in the loudest tone, have had their hearing so far restored that they can now hear ordinary conversation easily. Many who have been for years so blind that they could not see to read the coarsest print, have had their sight restored so that they can now read the fine print of this paper by the light of a tallow candle. These are facts which we state without fear of contradiction, and which we can prove by the testimony of our neighbors and friends.

GRAND MASS MEETING.

THE MOST GORGEOUS SPECTACLE EVER WITNESSED IN CRAWFORD COUNTY.

Premonitions of a Great Political Earthquake.

GREAT SPEECH BY HON. THOMAS M. MARSHALL.

Titusville Republicans Will Vote the Whole Ticket.

We give almost our entire space this morning to an account of the great patriotic demonstration which took place in this city last evening. It needed just such an occasion to show how thoroughly the Republican masses of the oil region are wedded to the emergencies of this campaign. We are to meet the same enemy and on the same issues which were presented from 1860 to 1864. We are to have Grant and Peace, or Seymour and War. But there is no doubt of the result. From every side, from every section, come the news of victory and the manifestation of that spirit and that interest in the issues of moment, which are the harbingers of victory.—Every wind that blows, whether from the Green Mountains of Vermont, the Pine Tree forests of Maine, the snow-clad peaks of Colorado, or the rich and fertile valleys of Connecticut redeemed, wafts to us the triumphs of the great party which has preserved the Union, and which in the future as in the past, is to secure to peace, prosperity and happiness.

The immense demonstration of last evening surpassed in brilliancy, enthusiasm and length anything of the kind previously attempted in this country. It was an ovation to the good cause, not from Titusville only, but from the oil region, and so much cannot be said in acknowledgment of the hearty cooperation of the Grant and Colfax Clubs from the neighboring townships. The Carpet Baggers of the oil region never do things by halves. Whether it be oil, or money, or torches or enthusiasm that is wanted, there is always a plentiful outpouring in honor of every regulation.

When we consider the brevity of the preparations, which commenced on Tuesday last, the inadequacy of railroad transportation, the impossibility of securing more than one speaker who could be positively announced, the unreliability of the weather, the preceding apathy in our ranks, it may be said the meeting of last evening was a wonderful success. There was no want of earnestness or perfection in any feature of the demonstration. The delegations from abroad must have exceeded 3,500 persons, and so far as our own citizens were concerned, it seemed as though for once, party lines were erased and all the people desired to participate in the jubilation.

The trains during the day brought large loads of passengers both from above and below, and at night the extra coaches were literally loaded down to the fullest capacity. First came the Corry Tanners, on the noon train, 100 strong, uniformed with glazed capes and jaunty caps and equipped with torches and transparencies. They were met by the Reception Committee and escorted by Brown's Cornet Band to the American and Bush House for entertainment.

In the afternoon they were addressed from the balcony of the HERALD office, by Col Wilson, of Corry, and a attentive assemblage of our own citizens were also listeners.

Bands of Music.

The instrumental music engaged for the occasion consisted of Brown's Cornet Band of Titusville, Columbia Band of Store Farm and the Jamestown Band. They numbered about fifty pieces in all, and while collected at the depot together, on the arrival of the evening trains, as escort for the delegations from abroad, and performing the Star Spangled Banner, inspired such a degree of enthusiasm as can only be awakened by the sublime strains of that patriotic production.

Subsequently, on the organization of the torchlight procession, each was assigned to its appropriate division, and received the highest encomiums upon the superior excellence of their performances.

The Procession.

At the appointed hour, the Grant and Colfax Clubs of Titusville assembled at the railroad depot to await the arrival of delegations from abroad. The Corry Tanners, who came on the noon train, were promptly at the rendezvous, and formed in division. The booming of cannon, the ringing of bells, the shrieking of whistles, and the discharge of rockets signalized the arrival of the trains, and the grand procession was then organized in the following order:

Grand Marshal—Capt. J. J. Carter.
Col mobile band of Story Farm.
Jamestown Cornet Band.
Twenty Blooded Bloodhounds (pretty well stuffed) under command of Col. Ned Pitcher.
Veteran Reserve Corps, 150 men, under command of Capt. Merry.
Major A. C. Hawkins, Assistant Marshal.
Petroleum Centre Clubs, 550 men.
Capt. A. D. Cameron, Aid.
Corry Tanners, 100 men, Capt Nash.
Oil City Club, 250 men.
Roussel le Chien, 100 men.
Pioneer Club, 150 men.
Hydetown and Scrr Hill 60 men.
Enterprise, 60 men.
Pleasantville, 50 men.
Shamburg, 75 men.
Cold Hurd, Alt.
Brown's Cornet Band.
Titusville Junior and Junior Clubs, 350 men.

This work completed the procession started upon the following line of march:

THE ROUTE.

From the railroad depot up Monroe to Spring, through Spring to Diamond, through Diamond to Pine, through Pine to the residence of Wm Lowrie; thence countermarching to Drake, through Drake to Main, through Main to Perry, through Perry to Elm, through Elm to Washington, through Washington to Franklin, through Franklin to Main, through Main to Washington and Pine, through Pine to Perry, through Perry to Main, through Spring to the HERALD office.

All along the route, the central business portions of the city, the sidewalks were literally packed with spectators, presenting at various points an almost inextricable jam. Every roof and balcony was covered with spectators, and the city lately shrouded in darkness was resplendent with illuminations. Through Spring, Diamond, Drake, Main, Franklin, Walnut, Spruce, Perry, Washington, and many lateral streets, the illuminations of private residences and offices and stores seemed almost universal. Many private dwellings were literally clothed with flags, banners and mottoes, and at various points variegated lanterns were strung across the streets, presenting a very brilliant effect. Wherever the procession passed, the darkness melted away as if by magic, and the sky was made brilliant and beautiful with the shooting of rockets, the bursting of Roman candles, colored balls, and the shimmer of myriads of falling sparks. Scores of rockets and many colored candles were fired from private residences in great profusion while the procession moved. The [illegible] was grand beyond description. The display was well conceived and effectually carried out, and all who participated in it felt abundantly repaid by the general success of the glorification.

The Transparencies.

It was of course impossible to note all the transparencies of the delegations to which they respectively belonged. The following were among the most conspicuous: "Ye bloated bondholders" and "Ye famished tax payers;" "Our brave boys in blue; have they fought and died in vain?" "Soldiers bounties must be paid." "Remember Andersonville"—Remember Libby." "Shamburg Carpet Baggers—We carry our carpet bags where we please. We will bag them on Tuesday next." "Democratic victories, 1868—Camp Ida massacre. Killed, 50. Wounded, 62—Discharge of J. H. Surratt, 1—Total 113." "Republican victories, 1868—Vermont 28,000; Maine 21,000; Colorado 72, Total 49,072." "Remember Libby Prison." "Unconditional Surrender." "Grant and Colfax—Union and Peace." "First Ward, 40 majority;" "Second Ward, 100 majority;" "Third Ward—Friends, have you forgotten Bill?" "Fourth Ward, 25 majority;" "No repudiation." The Tarr Farm carpet baggers and the Rouseville Club carried transparencies with appropriate inscriptions, as did also the Hydetown club, the latter, "We vote as we shot," &c. There were probably fifty others, of which our reporters were unable to obtain an account.

The Illuminations.

For full two hours the city was fairly ablaze with light from thousands of candles and Chinese lanterns, and as the procession moved along there was an almost continuous discharge of sky rockets and Roman candles and frequent burning of many colored lights. In recording the illuminations, it is very probable that some residences on all the streets are inadvertantly omitted.

Two Thousand Torches.

It is exceedingly difficult on such occasions to state accurately the number of persons in a procession, but estimating the reports made to us of delegations from abroad who joined the torchlight procession, together with those of our Titusville clubs who supplied many torches we believe there were not less than two thousand men in line of march. The procession moved rapidly, and about two hours were consumed in the march.

The Speakers' Platform

was erected at the intersection of Diamond and Spring streets, fronting the HERALD office. The office containing twenty-two windows, and nearly three hundred illuminated panes, presented a dazzling spectacle; and with its myriad Chinese lanterns, illuminating a life size portrait of GEN. GRANT and his famous declarations—

"LET US HAVE PEACE"

"I DEMAND AN UNCONDITIONAL SURRENDER,"

seemed to intensify the general enthusiasm. The cornices of the platform, erected beneath the balcony, contained these additional inscriptions:

"WE WILL FIGHT IT OUT ON THIS LINE."

"I PROPOSE TO MOVE IMMEDIATELY ON YOUR WORKS,"

"THE WILL OF THE PEOPLE IS THE LAW OF THE LAND."

Fronting the stage was a large transparency emblazoned as follows:

THE UNION GALAXY.

SHERMAN.	DIX	SHERIDAN.
KILPATRICK	GRANT.	PLEASANTON.
MEADE.	SICKLES.	THOMAS.

When the procession halted in front of the HERALD office, the entire street and walks on all sides were compactly filled.

The assembly was called to attention by Fred Bates, Esq., who made the following nominations for officers of the meeting:

SECRETARIES.

Sam. W. Blakely, L. W. Brown,
C. S. Clark, J. W. Esler.

Major Bloss expressed in suitable terms his appreciation of the honor, so unexpectedly conferred, in being called upon to preside over the largest political demonstration ever witnessed in the oil regions. Looking at the immense gathering before him, he could not tell from whence they all came, or whither they would return. He only felt that these blazing bonfires, these flaming torches, these celestial illuminations, were typical of that patriotic enthusiasm which burned within their hearts like a living flame. He accepted it as an indication that the tidal wave of the great political earthquake, which had shaken Maine and Vermont, was approaching Pennsylvania, and that to our opponents on the 13th of October it would prove a Vicksburg, and on the 3d of November an Appomattox.

The men who had come to address them required no introduction, for they had rendered signal services to the Republican cause and were widely known and honored. Their words would be words of truth and soberness and they would discuss the issues of the day in a manner that would command and deserve the profoundest attention.

After a patriotic air by Brown's Cornet Band, the President read a dispatch from Hon. C. W. Gillilan, stating that he found it impossible to attend the meeting, but had sent a capable representative, and Col. L. D. Rogers was introduced to the meeting.

Colonel Rogers exhorted the voters of Venango county to vote the whole ticket from top to bottom. He pledged 800 majority for the ticket. Distinguished speakers were present, to address them as was proper, as they were a distinguished people. Cheer for Grant now, and you can cheer for him for four years to come.

The President then read a dispatch from Hon. S. Newton Pettis, our Congressional candidate for the unexpired term, in which he said it was impossible for him to come to Titusville, for he was in the midst of the largest meeting ever held in Crawford county—he hadn't seen this one—(cheers,) but that he had sent General Hartranft—(cheers.) He fought for us said the speaker, four long years, and we elected him Auditor General of Pennsylvania, and he fought for us as well as a freeholder, for the reduction of the state debt that we propose to reflect him for a second term. (Loud and prolonged cheers.)

Gen Hartranft was introduced to the meeting, but after a few acknowledgments of the enthusiastic cheering in which he was received, excused himself from speaking at night on account of a severe cold and over exertion. He made a brief but fervent exhortation to his old comrades to sustain the country and our flag in its present peril with the same [illegible] and determination which characterized them in the field of battle.

The President read a dispatch from Hon. H. C. Johnson, of Meadville, stating that Senator Wilson found it impossible to visit Titusville, on account of previous engagements; but what do we want of Senator Wilson when we have here glorious Tom Marshall, of Allegheny, one of the best Republican orators in the Keystone State. Mr. Marshall was introduced to the audience amid tremendous and long continued cheers.

Speech by Hon. Thomas M. Marshall.

Mr. Marshall coming forward, looked up at the Seymour and Blair flag and asked how such names came to be inscribed on the Stars and Stripes. Did the rebels put them there? The motto of the Democrats was in War, Peace, and in Peace, War. He had been told that Titusville was too large for her breeches, and when he witnessed the vast crowd before him, he could well understand that no one county could contain them; they needed two or three counties. He understood that his friend Hester Clymer had been with them a few nights before, and had brought a "Brick" with him. Brick Pomeroy was, after all, the most honest Democrat in the party, as the genuine organ of the real sentiments of two-thirds of the Democratic party. Brick believed and said the war was wrong, and believed and said that Booth was the Brutus who rid his country of a tyrant. Clymer had said the people were ground to the earth with taxation; it was a wonder they didn't know it, if that was the case. It was false to say that everything we eat, drink or wear was taxed. Not one farmer, not one mechanic in a hundred, or a thousand paid a war tax. The tax was made necessary to pay the boys that stood up in the time of battle, and whatever the terms of the contract were, whether gold or paper, the country would live up to it. This debt brought us peace, victory, national life, and if Seymour wanted to resign his share as a citizen in the glory of the country, his part in the fields won by our valor, his part in the flag, won, let him do it and let him leave the country. A few years ago a man by the name of Drake, whom everybody called a Yankee fool, for the attempt, put the first well down in this region, and to-day Petroleum is the first element of the nation's wealth. Who was this man Drake? Why, a dirty carpet-bagger from New England. And where would you be, to-day, but for this carpet-bagger? A voice, "raising buckwheat!" (Laughter.) Mr. Marshall, turning at the interruption—Yes, raising buckwheat. I doubt not that man is from Butler county, where they raise three crops of buckwheat a year. [Loud laughter.] But seriously, are we carpet baggers? These thirty-six States, are they not ours? Can we not go wherever the heart prompts us to go. But they say, you want to oppress our Southern brethren. Before the war they said they could whip us ten to one. But when the farmer's boy, who never had a street fight in his life, looked over the flash of his musket into the white of the rebel's eye in Southern battle fields, they said we can lick them five, then ten to one. But by the time that little Grant caught the biggest rebel of the lot, they began to think that we were not so despicable a people at the North after all. The speaker then proceeded to illustrate what a gentleman was. He was one who understood the needs and the resources of a country, of a people, and how to supply, and meet and develop them; how to stimulate production, facilitate and cheapen transportation, exchange and trade, and how to foster and aggrandize commerce. But besides these broad views, he must be a man of the people, knowing their daily life, their thoughts and experiences, needs and aspirations and ready to sympathize and act with them. He had listened only to an address from Dr. Mercer, who, in a speech one hour and fifty minutes, had spent one hour and forty minutes in proving that Grant was a drunkard, a fool and no soldier, how he surrendered at Vicksburg and so on, and how he had blundered at Appomattox Court House; and at that stage this Democratic orator had paused, and wiping his sweaty brow, added, "And then the rebellion ended." A soldier who had been half sleeping in the gallery woke up suddenly at his conclusion, and called out, "Mr. Speaker, you say Gen Grant is a fool, a drunkard, and that he plundered all the time. Then, who in—ll was it, if you can tell me, that did whip the rebels?" (Applause.) All the Generals, McClellan, Burnside, Pope, Hooker, in all failed then Lincoln sent for little Grant, who had never issued a proclamation, and Grant said to Thomas, you wipe out Hood; and to Sherman, you destroy Atlanta and drive your plow of flame to the sea; and to Sheridan, do you whirl up the valley after Early; and they obliged him, and the little man flexed his eye on Richmond and he fought it out on that line. When under a sour apple tree he said "General Lee, you are my prisoner, he presented to Abraham Lincoln a sound nation. Seymour's history was soon written; he was a lawyer who never tried a case, he was born rich and knew nothing of the life of the common people; he ran four times for office, was elected twice, was defeated twice, and run behind his ticket every time. But the Democrats, from Brick Pomeroy down, say "No Nigger Equality!" There were some Democrats he knew of, that would need many degrees of elevation, to make them equal to a negro. Here we have kept the negro under foot for centuries, made it a penitentiary offence for him to read or to pray, and then we say to him, "Why the d—l aren't you smart?" No man is afraid of negro equality, but the man who has hard work to keep above the negro himself. And the loudest bawler against taxes he had ever heard of was a man who had not paid but eighteen cents tax a year for the past six years. But they say, "Do you want to marry a nigger?" No, I don't. I never felt the least inclination to do it. And I can only account for the fear of our Democratic friends of such a catastrophe, on the principle that the flesh is weak, and I pray the Lord to deliver them from temptation. The speaker then exhorted all to vote at the October election and the November election would only be a corn husking in comparison with it. Vote the whole Republican ticket. All men cannot expect to get their first choice in the candidate. One Republican vote in October was two votes for Grant, for a victory in Pennsylvania would surely be followed by one in New York. Elect Grant, and we shall have peace at home and abroad. England will say, "We had better settle the Alabama claims;" the French Emperor will say, "Hands off, the little fellow who winked me out of Mexico!" Forrest will never toot his horn again, nor Hampton croak or bully about the "Lost Cause."

The above is a feeble and imperfect report of a speech of great eloquence and power. The brief time allotted the speaker before the departure of the trains induced him to touch only the tops of thoughts, the heights of great arguments. But his circumstance did not detract from its effectiveness, but only concentrated the more the compactness of his satire, and the cogency of his appeals. But in his brief hour, where he had played with the subject, he held it up in all the lights in which the people are accustomed to look at it, and his words sunk into their memories and found responsive chords in their hearts as they recalled from the beginning to the close of his address, with unmeasured applause and enthusiasm.

Conclusion.

Mr. Marshall retired amid enthusiastic and long continued applause.

The President then announced that the Regulation Flag, offered as a prize to the largest delegation, had been awarded to Petroleum Centre, which had 550 men and torches in the line, and three cheers were given for Major Hawkins and Petroleum Centre.

The President announced that Oil City had sent a delegation of 250, and they intended to have a demonstration of their own to-night, and desired that the Titusville clubs should come down with their torches, a proposition which was unanimously voted aye, with three cheers for Oil City—Cheers were also given for all the delegations by name. This was followed by music from the Jamestown Band.

Colonel Davidson, of Titusville, was loudly called for, and was introduced to the audience as the commander of the 133th Regiment of Illinois Volunteers, who had wound up a great many rebels, and would now wind up the meeting—which he did in a speech of about fifteen minutes duration, characterized by his customary vigor of thought, energy of manner and point of application.

And the meeting adjourned with oft-repeated cheers for Grant and Colfax, Hartranft and Campbell, and the straight Republican ticket for Congress, Assembly and county officers.

Ho! for Oil City.

There will be a meeting of the Senior and Junior Republican Clubs this morning at 9½ o'clock, to make arrangements to go to Oil City to-night. A full and punctual attendance is requested.

F. W. AMES, President Senior Club.
A. D. CAMERON, President Junior Club.

Blair Gives it Up.

A letter from a Washington correspondent, dated September 30th, says: "Blair has been here on a visit to Montgomery and the 'old man' at Silver spring. In his private conversation with his chums, he admits that he has little or no hope of being elected. He swears bluerly at the rich men of his party for not shelling out their greenbacks more freely, and says that Pennsylvania will be lost for want of a few hundred thousand dollars judiciously employed. He also growls at A. J. for his indifference in this contest, and charges that Andy has turned the cold shoulder to the ticket, and fails to sympathize or co operate with the efforts making to elect it."

The writer adds that this is not because Johnson dislikes Grant less, but because he hates Seymour more. He feels that, after all the sacrifices he has made in behalf of the copper-rebels, they treated him most ungratefully and basely. He deserved the New York nomination, and firmly believes that, had he got it, he would have been elected. After rescuing the Democratic party from the throes of death, and building it up to its present formidable condition, to be cast off to make room for such a man as Seymour was too much for human nature to endure. Hence old Blair has not been able to extract any material or moral assistance from Andy for his hopeful boy Frank.

Heister and Brick at Oil City.

OIL CITY, Oct. 8, 1868.

Editors Morning Herald:

A sorry looking set of Democrats walk this town to day. Their hopes had been great in regard to their demonstration of last night. All the elaborate preparations within their power had been made, their great gun Clymer was to be on hand; banners in profusion had been prepared, torches by hundreds had been filled and trimmed for the burning, two brass bands were in attendance from abroad, trains were running for their accommodation on the O. C. & A. R., A. & G. W. and A. V. Railways. The weather was propitious and every event favorable to the greatest possible demonstration. The turnout from Franklin, and from the Creek as far up as Petroleum Centre was good, the trains coming in loaded; Republicans lined the sidewalks of the town and to due time most of them wended their way to the vicinity of the speakers' stand. A skirmisher in the shape of a Philadelphia orator opened the battle, whom some may have listened to, but we did not. Immediately following him came the tide in the affairs of the meeting which in the minds of the originators did not at all lead on to victory. The irrepressible Brick was there, large as life and twice as natural. It had been the special tactics of the meeting not to have him there, but by a bold strategic movement he outmanuevered them. He did not stand on the ceremony of an invitation to help save his country. The faithful had mostly heard him the previous evening at Titusville, and their acquaintance with him there, together with their preconceived notions of him, were not such that they were desirous of introducing him among their uncertain warring ones at Oil City; but the morning train brought him to town, and the courtesy of brother to brother could not do less than to invite him to join their ranks. Accordingly on the subsiding of the first declaimer, the cries arose lustily and long for Brick Pomeroy, it was a bitter pill for the head centers who had argued to have a good time with their orthodox orators; the President was on his feet to introduce Mr. Clymer, but the "whelming tide" seemed to be determined to carry on its bosom Mr. Pomeroy, and accordingly Mr. Pomeroy had to be brought forth. He kept possession of the stand until eleven o'clock; Republicans jubilant; many of the rank and file of the Democracy also; but disgust expressed in the usages and language of the would be conductors of the meeting. He was altogether himself, which tells the whole story. After eleven o'clock, Mr. Clymer, the intended hero of the occasion, called up the meeting in a manner which we have not met anyone that was able to tell us.

NEW WELL.

A new well was struck Thursday night on the Brown and House tract, in the north eastern portion of the borough of Pleasantville. The well was sunk by the United States Petroleum Company, and its production is variously estimated at from 40 to 60 barrels per day. It is the furthest well to the north of any producing wells with the exception of the old Nettleton wells, which have been pumping two years and six months.

CHOP MAGNER wishes to notify the public that he is obliged to be at Petroleum Centre today, but will return here Monday and give an exhibition at one and a half p. m.

Pomeroy Beat at the Hand-Organ Business.

Mr. "Brick" Pomeroy has one good quality—he is frank, outspoken; he does not conceal his sentiments, or likes and dislikes. The other day, as he stated, he engaged a hand-organ grinder to come daily to his newspaper office, and there play the tune of "Dixie's Land." The music delighted the children, and the sauciness of the act amused the general public, who laughed at the odd conceit of a rank rebel causing this rebel air to be played on the streets of New York. But afterwards some wag hired another hand organ man to station himself near by, and play with equal industry another well known air "Sherman's March to the Sea." The Sun reports

"The effect upon the crowd, which now rapidly increased in numbers, was electrical. They perceived the joke and enjoyed it hugely. Cheers went up for Sherman, and the pennies flew all over the player and his instrument. The day wore on, but Sherman still kept marching, crest fallen Dixie disappeared. Night closed upon the Union man with seven hundred cents weighing down his breeches pockets besides the green backs of his hire. Jollily hefting his instrument upon his shoulder, and as he went his way rejoicing, assured the crowd who cheered him, 'I come again to-morrow wis one odder t'urrel, and I play all day, John Brown's body lies mouldering in his grave, but his soul is marcling on.'"

We trust Mr Pomeroy will not lose his temper, though "the boys" have got the best of him.

The American Cooking Stove.
AN EQUAL PATENT SUIT—We understand Messrs. Sloan Lackard & Co. have been compelled to commence suit against Hunt & Miller of Hudson for infringing the patent on the Ash Sifter in the American Cooking stove. This is the fifth suit they have been compelled to bring against different parties for infringing the different patents in this Stove. The four previous suits have resulted favorably for S P & Co and they regret compelled to follow up all cases of infringement until other is cease from appropriating their improvements.—Albany Evening Journal, July 30th, 1868

All persons are cautioned against selling or using Stoves with a Shaking Ash Sifter in the hearth, or under the grate as this improvement is fully secured to us by five different Patents, and all persons selling or using Stoves with this improvement will be liable to prosecution for infringement, as we have granted no licenses to other parties to make or sell this improvement and all infringements will be promptly prosecuted.

OFFICE AT THE RED PLANING MILL

Herein before we have in our circulars added to a table of experiments which made with Nitro Glycerine and other explosives. We were announced we have added a table showing the use of the Torpedo lessened at the force many times multiplied and are now prepared to operate on wells with any of the above named explosives either with our improved application or Combination Torpedo which has a record of utility too well known to need mention here

24-lb Nitro Glycerine, equal to 64 lbs. powder	$ 56
16-lb. 128 lbs. powder	200
Combinat on equal to 160 lbs. powder	150
Improve combination eq to 150 lbs. powder	200
Double combination, equal to 200 to 1000 lbs powder	$225 to 500

CAUTION—The public is cautioned against employing any but the regularly authorized agent of this Company, since their patent, according to the recent decision of the Commissioner of Patents for the United States, covers the use of the Torpedo and all other explosive materials for oil wells and the use of such materials by other parties is a direct infringement of their rights, and we shall hold landlord or working interest strict accountable for such infringements.
